

A Case of the Mondays

Introduction

Series intro: We all need to pay bills, get through school, and keep our families safe. But you were also made for more than the mundane. You were made on purpose and for a purpose. Let's move from just showing up to fulfilling God's unique calling.

Pray

Don't forget that if anything significant happens, it's because God moved. Start by asking God to bless this time.

Practice Truth

1. Take a moment and share what you would consider is your 'work' (accountant, student, parent, retired).
2. Share one thing you love about your job and one thing you wish you could change. Could looking at your job and your coworkers, classmates, or family as your mission change the way you approach your Mondays? How?
3. What are some of the ways you've seen people try to bring God into the workplace? Why is it often so difficult?
4. Does the idea of God having a job (working/making/etc...) strike you as odd? Why or why not?
5. What is the significance of God assigning work to Adam pre-fall?

Leader's Tip

Don't try to be perfect. When you meet someone who acts like they're perfect, does that impress you? No! At best, it makes you feel like you can't relate. At worst, it makes you suspicious. People aren't looking for perfect; they're looking for real.

Do Life Together

When we split our jobs into secular and away from sacred, we miss out on God's presence in the 167 other hours of the week. How will you move your sphere of influence closer to God this week?
